Observations... From Around Town

(BY JAY WHOZIT)

Well, just a little over thirty days until the city election, and up to this time the campaigning seems to be all one-sided, with the majority of the scrapping being done for the office of Mayor, with the candidates for the offices of commissioner having very little to say about each other... can it be that each in his own mind feels that the opposition is so mediocre, that his election is a foregone conclusion? ... if that be the case many of them are due for a rude awakening come the day after election... the Little Theatre is active again this week with its members presenting the play, "Craig's Wife" on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, at the Carroll Avenue playhouse... for those who may be interested, Bishop Leo F. Fahey will celebrate 8:30 Mass on Sunday morning at Our Lady of the Gulf Church... it won't be long now until Bay Motors will have on display, the new '49 Ford, watch for further announcement... we are happy to see Al Voight back at his place of business after a hard tussle with the mumps, which put him down, but not out... the Hancock Bank Building is undergoing a special waterproofing treatment, which makes it look at first glance as if it has been through a fire, but a new coat of paint after this treatment will restore its former brightness... by the way, Mr. Mayor, isn't there something you can do about some of these asphalt topped streets getting all soft and gooey during the hot weather? ... they're hard on auto tires and harder on shoes when one has to walk across them... the National Safety Council says that more traffic deaths occur during the vacation months of June, July and August, than during any other similar period of time during the year, so if you're planning a vacation trip soon be sure to avoid trying to cover too much distance in one day... there was a time when folks just dreaded attending high school commencements, because they were always such long-drawn-out affairs, but such is not the case any more, because those in charge of these affairs have finally realized that shortening commencement exercises makes them more interesting, and that many more folks attend who otherwise would not... the Mississippi Press Association will meet in Biloxi, next week, June 9 and 10 with J. D. Arlington, of Collins, and Clayton Rand, of Gulfport, addressing the group at the annual banquet on Friday night... the business meeting will be followed by a deep-sea fishing trip on June 11... Brother Peter, of St. Stanislaus, who has been ill for the past week here entered a New Orleans hospital this week for further observation and treatment... C. C. (Cliff) Ferrell, for a number of years, manager of the Coast Electric Power Association (REPA) has resigned his position and has gone into business for himself... our good wishes to you in your new undertaking, Cliff... Tyrone Power, the movie actor, was in New Orleans, this week for a few hours between planes... Pete Porter flew to Memphis last Friday afternoon, picked up a new Pontiac, which he drove back here and was back at work at his service station as usual Saturday morning... really going modern, eh Pete? ... Mr. Mayor how about connecting the yellow caution light on the traffic light at Main and Second—the flip to the red and green is too fast—and while we are on the subject of lights—since you have opened the beach road, traffic is again becoming a problem at the foot of the bridge—how about the traffic light at that spot—may save a life or two.

If you did not attend the opening performance do not fail to go to the Friday or Saturday night show. Again the production staff has given the audience a three star performance.

Rotary Club And Legion Post Sponsor Boys For Boy's State At Jackson June 6 to 12

Cyril J. Fayard, senior at St. Stanislaus and Theodore C. Morel, a junior at Bay High, will attend the Magnolia Boy's State in Jackson from June 6 to June 12. These young men will be sponsored by the Rotary Club and the Clement R. Bontemps Post of the American Legion.

The purpose of Boys State is to educate the youth in the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities of American citizenship, and the young men are given an opportunity to see how a government functions. They elect their own city, county, and state governments; and they learn the duties of the various public offices; their functions, their limitations and their power. They have their own legislature, introduce and debate their own bills; they have their own city councils, and their own city officials.

The young men have other activities other than those of government. They will participate in athletics and contests, trips, and other activities to relieve the tedium of school life. Among other things, the sessions of the Boy's State Legislature will be held in the State Capitol where the embryo officials will receive the thrill of conducting a legislative session in the very halls where legislators have worked for the past 44 years.

To be eligible for Boy's State the young men selected must be of high moral character, good sports, and they must demonstrate potential leadership tendencies based on their school and community. Boys who are juniors or seniors in high school are eligible.

Magnolia Boy's State presents an opportunity to the young men who will soon be our leaders, and it is a week that will be well spent by these two young men from our community.

Mrs. Ernest Erwin Discusses "Training World Workers For World Missions"

Subject Discussed From Several Angles Before Woman's Missionary Society of First Baptist Church

Mrs. Ernest Erwin discussed the Topic "Training World Workers for World Missions" before the meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Erwin discussed the subject from several angles of why and where missionaries are needed. Especially she brought out why missionaries are needed and said that never in the history of the world has there been a greater need for workers in the field. This she attributed to the fact that there are more people in the world who are not Christians. The number of missionaries today, Mrs. Erwin said, average one to each five thousand people, in the world.

Mrs. Erwin also noted the great need of training these workers because she said every person should be trained for the work they are to do and that is the need of today—Christian colleges for the training of missionaries. Christian schools are the best for training missionaries because they are Christians and they are the best because they are missionary. Workers are also trained in the churches and through the Margaret Fund.

Mrs. Erwin also gave information on the church's auxiliaries, which are doing their part in the training of missionaries.

Miss Sallie Pearson was designated to attend the viewing of the picture preliminary to the cause of study on "We the United Nations" which is under the direction of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church.

The course will be held each Friday at 10 a. m. during June with all three Protestant churches participating.

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

To the Citizens of Bay St. Louis:

Following is a copy of a bill rendered the City of Bay St. Louis by Mr. T. E. Kellar, on May 15th., 1948:

Bay St. Louis, Miss.
5/15/48.

2nd Week
Labor 3 men $4.50 per day for 1 day 13.50
20 gallons gas 30c per gallon 6.00

$1783.00

Approved G. Y. Blaize
Mayor

Paid in full
(Signed) T. E. Kellar

Warrant No. 665 — Special Improvement

Before I go any further, I had better explain the "why and wherefore" of the above bill. I feel sure, the Honorable Mayor and Board of Commissioners will permit my explaining it, because there is absolutely no authorization whatsoever in the Official Minutes of the Board, for the above expenditure. More than that, there is no record whatsoever in the Official Minutes of the Board, authorizing the PURCHASE of the dirt in the first place.

The dirt or fill was used by the City to make temporary repairs to sections of our Beach Road that were damaged or destroyed by the last September hurricane. The Mayor first tried to make these repairs by pumping in sand with the County dredge boat. This plan was discontinued within a short time, as impracticable, but only after several hundreds of dollars worth of practically nothing had been pumped in behind the seawall. In the meantime, the L. & N. Railroad offered to allow the City of Bay St. Louis to dig all the dirt it needed to make these repairs

(free of charge), from its Sand Pit property. The County dragline, with the permission of the County Board of Supervisors, was dispatched to the L. & N. Sand Pit property. Mayor Blaize hired an operator, at $1.50 per hour, to operate the machine. He had also hired Mr. J. R. Rollins, engineer, to supervise the work. Then, without any authorization whatsoever from the City Board Mayor Blaize entered into an agreement with Mr. Kellar to deliver the dirt on the job at the rate of 75c per yd. Mr. Kellar, in addition to using his own trucks, hired several truck operators to help haul the fill and paid them at the rate of $1.25 per load. The City paid Mr. Kellar at the rate of $3.00 per load.

Section 9027 of the Mississippi Code of 1942 forbids any municipality, or the governing board thereof, from purchasing any supplies for public works or letting contracts therefor in excess of $100 without advertising for bids, and without submitting an itemized statement of the supplies needed, to at least two dealers in the supplies sought, and the law provides that the purchase shall be made from the lowest bidder.

Why didn't the City Board comply with the law in this case? There are only two possible excuses; one is to claim that an emergency existed and the other is to classify this work as street maintenance. To claim the first would be absurd; the hurricane took place September 19th, 1947: repair work was not started in this particular case until April 1948, some seven months later. To claim the second, would be ridiculous because neither Mr. Kellar, the truck operators, or the laborers, whose time Mr. Kellar included in his bill, were on the regular city payroll.

Let us assume that Mr. Blaize did have the right to purchase this material without advertising for bids. Then why didn't the City Board contact all the men in the hauling business in Bay St. Louis, including Mr. Kellar, and deal with them directly? If Mr. Kellar could hire trucks for $1.25 per load, certainly the City could have hired them for $2.00 per load. On the basis of 546 loads of dirt, the City would have been $546 better off and the men who have a thousand or more dollars invested in trucking equipment, would have been 75c per load better off. This is another typical example of the "efficient and business-like manner" in which our City has been run during the past sixteen years.

Let's not kid ourselves, friends, Bay St. Louis is most urgently in need of a mayor who is interested in developing and building our city rather than one who is seeking the office for old age security or for furthering his own personal interests. What the next four years will be like, we cannot foresee, but certainly we should be prepared for any eventuality. Young, honest and vigorous leadership will be an asset, come what may.

I am utterly confident that I can measure up to all the qualifications necessary to give Bay St. Louis the type of leadership it so urgently needs. If elected, I pledge myself to devote my FULL TIME to the duties of my office and to cooperate wholeheartedly with all our civic organizations, business leaders, taxpayers and workers, to make Bay St. Louis a better and more prosperous place to live in.

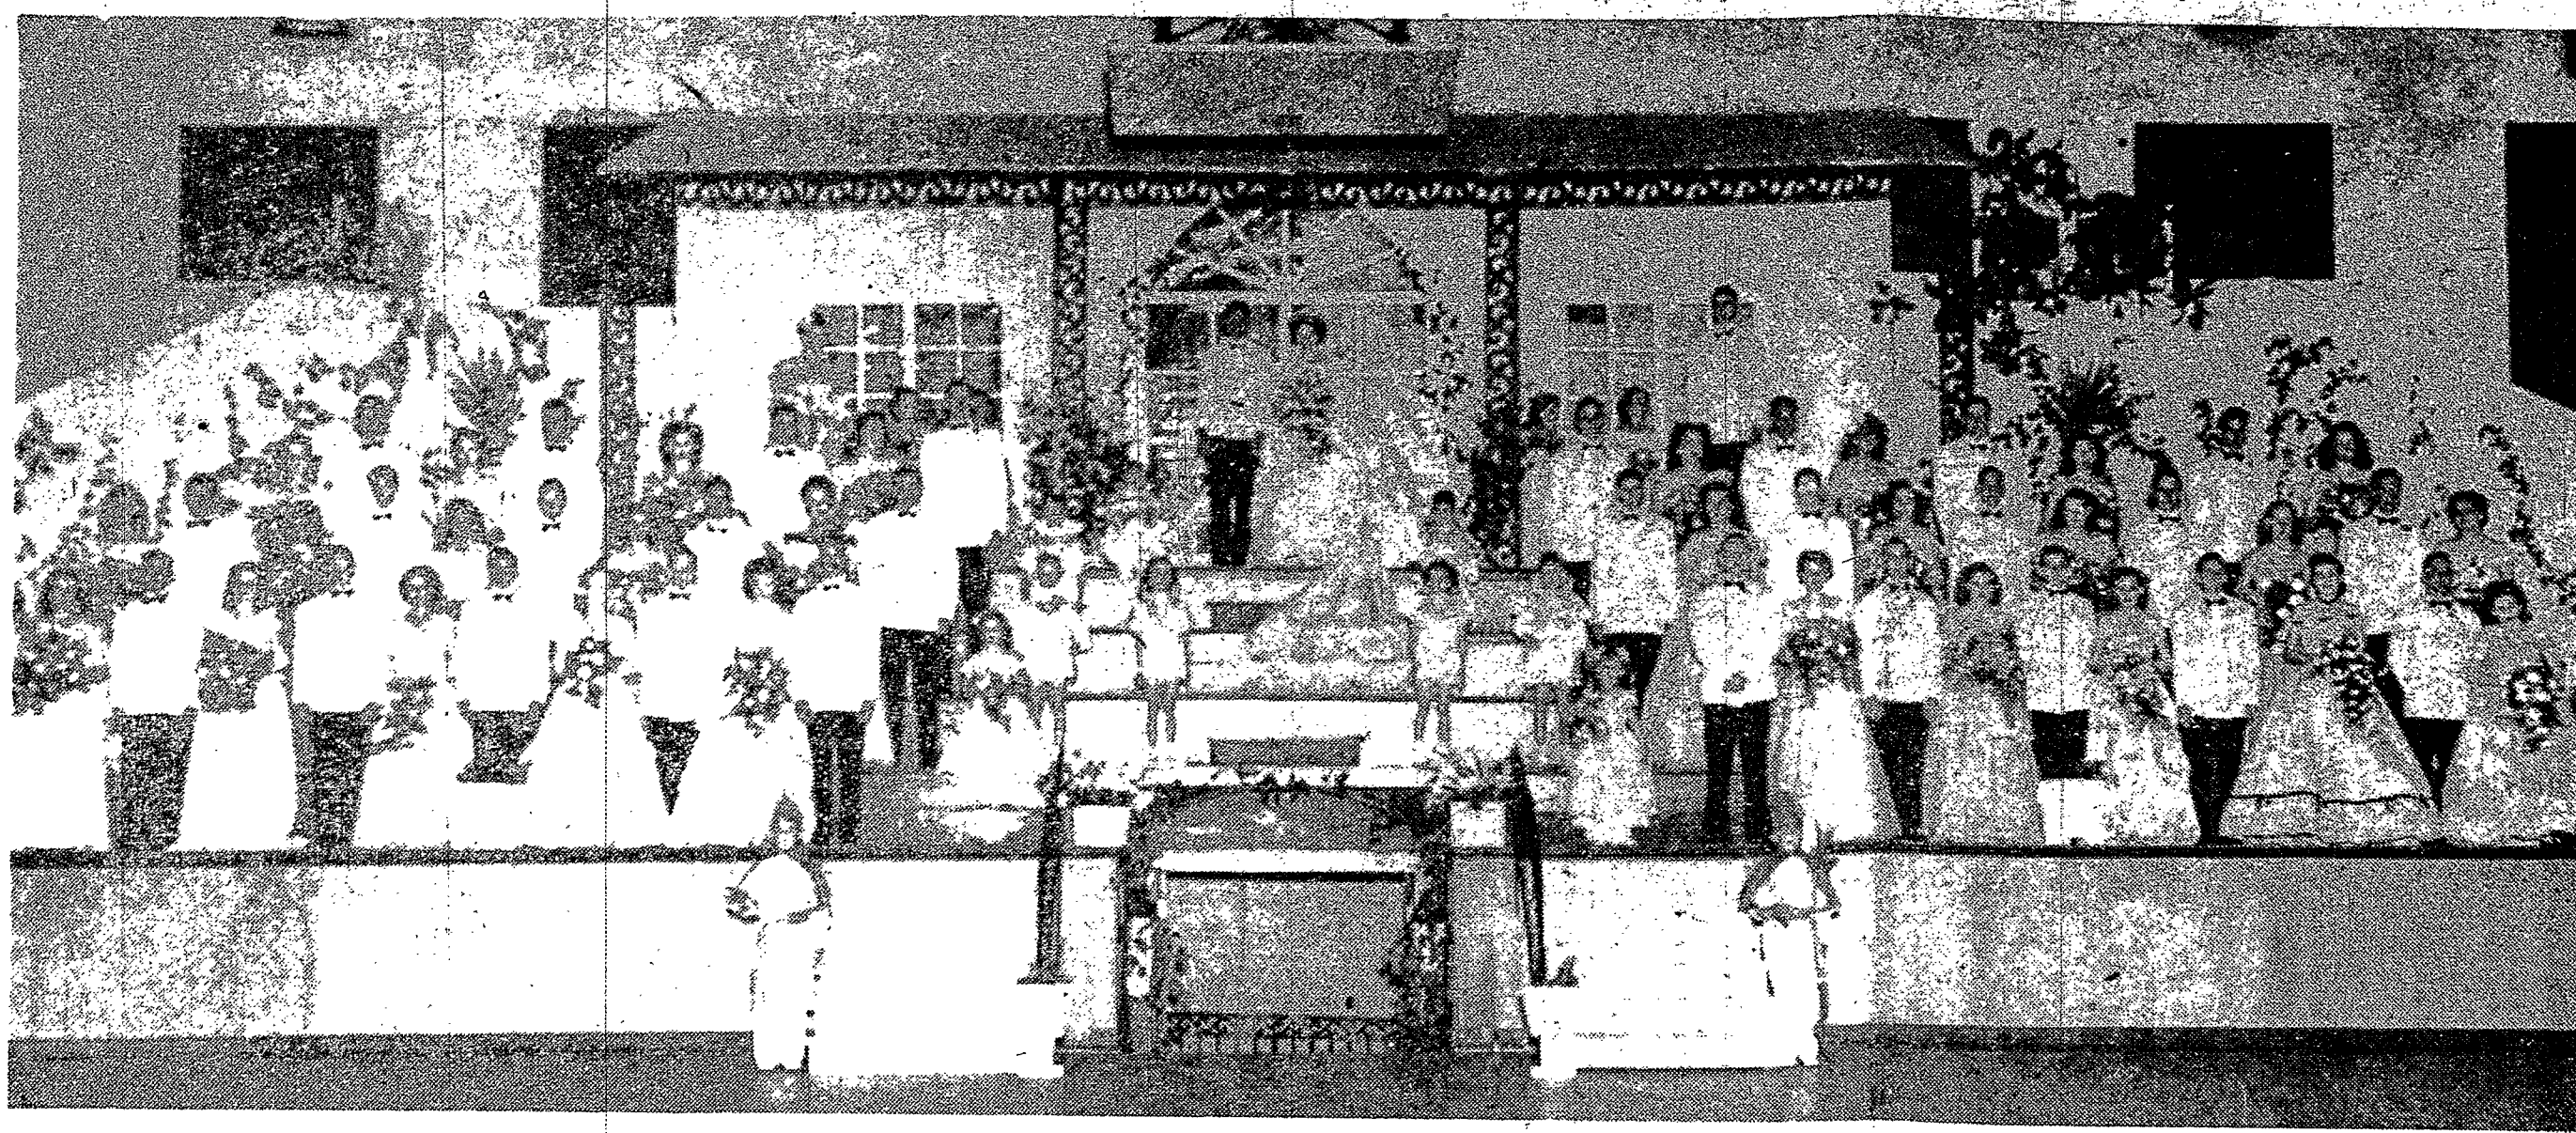

Sincerely yours,

JOHN A. SCAFIDE.

"SLEEP, MY LOVE" TO BE AT A. & G. THEATRE THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

France has given the United States two famous women; one is a lady carrying a torch, standing sedately in New York Harbor and known as the Statue of Liberty; the other is a vivacious, beautiful lady who has the men carrying the torches and who goes by the name of Claudette Colbert.

The lovely screen star can now be seen in "Sleep, My Love," a Tri-ang Production presented by Mary Pickford. Don Ameche and Robert Cummings co-star with her in the film, a fascinating drama with a psychological twist that is being released by United Artists, and slated to open on Thursday and Friday at the A. & G. Theatre.

Claudette was born in Paris, but was brought to the United States at the age of four and has lived here ever since. Her father was a banker (the family name was Chauchion) and her mother a successful dress designer. Claudette thought at one time that she would also become a designer and studied for it very seriously until a friend suggested that she ought to go on the stage. This friend put her in touch with Ann Morrison, the playwright who gave her a small part in her then current play, "The Wild Westcotts." In this play, just a minor Broadway offering, were Cornelia Otis Skinner, Elliot Nugent, the late

Edna May Oliver and a host of other players who have since reached the top of the theatrical profession.

A series of plays followed for Claudette, but it was "The Barker," in which she was cast opposite Walter Huston that she achieved her real Broadway success. Not only did she get the reputation of being a fine actress, but she was also rated a great beauty. In the show she had to wear an abbreviated dress that showed off her legs and from that time on she was known as "the girl with the most beautiful legs on Broadway."

But Claudette was too smart to rely on her beauty alone. She studied and perfected her technique so that she might play a variety of interesting roles and it was inevitable that eventually she should attract the attention of the cinema moguls.

ORTTE THEATRE SUNDAY AND MONDAY "SIGN OF THE RAM"

"The Sign of the Ram," Columbia's picturization of the best-selling novel by Margaret Ferguson which has, as its leading character, one of the most widely-discussed heroines of fiction, is coming to the Ortte Theatre on Sunday and Monday.

The film marks the return to the screen of Susan Peters in the powerful, emotional role of a woman who tries to make a weapon of love. This is a startling departure from the sweet young ingenues which Miss Peters formerly portrayed, and is the type of characterization which issues a challenge to the imagination of real dramatic ability of any actress.

The setting of the Charles Bennett screenplay (he also wrote "Un-conquered" is Cornwall England. When Sherida Binyon (Phyllis Thaxter) arrives to be secretary to author Leash St. Aubyn (Susan Peters), she senses the unusually strong grip which the lovely Leash holds over her husband (Alexander Knox) and his three children (Ross Ford, Allene Roberts and Peggy Ann Garner).

The family is intensely devoted to Leash, and the latter uses this love to gain her own ends. The story is said to reach its suspenseful climax, after Leash breaks up the forthcoming marriages of two of the children, and inspires the youngest to attempt murder!

According to advance reports, the film has its higher moments, too. One particularly charming scene is said to take place when Susan Peters sings the popular ballad, "I'll Never Say 'I Love You' to Anyone But You," and plays her own piano accompaniment.

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

Hello, Folks:

Thank you, ladies, for your favorable comments on my article of last week. Thank you, too, for your interest in asking me to compare your taxes with the present Mayor's taxes. At this time, it would be an impossibility to do all of them, so next week I am going to take one out of this group and make the comparison for your consideration.

This week we want to consider the graduating groups of our local schools. Last week some fifty-two local students received their diplomas of graduation from 4 schools after many long years of perseverance and progress. I heartily congratulate these students on their success and sincerely hope that they will apply their past excellent instruction to the real and earnest goal of making a happy and successful life for themselves. Yet have you ever stopped to think that out of these fifty-two young people approximately 5% will be unable to continue their education in some higher field of learning? Now, what happens to the other 95%? What do we have in our City to offer those students who are going to stay with us? Office jobs will take care of a few, construction will take a few others, and fishing and farming will fall to the lot of others. But the bulk of our young folks will have to leave our city to seek employment. What a pity it is that our city is unable to secure enough industries to give these job seekers the opportunities they wish right here at home!

We have not been fair to them. We should have demanded that our administrators encourage new industries coming to our city so that these young people have equal opportunities for the future. Only the other day a visitor came in my office who at one time used to live here. He smilingly shook his head and said that the town was the same... no changes made... He could find his way anywhere with no trouble. He meant it as a compliment probably, but I found that it jarred on my nerves. We dislike the thought of living in a city that does not progress with others. We know that there is no such thing as standing still in the eyes of the world in progress. If people can come here after an absence of twenty years and make the above statement, it is very clear just which way we are headed. We need new industries and we need new men in office who will bring them in and encourage the expansion and development of our city.

Five weeks ago I asked the City Council to furnish the Sea Coast Echo with a true and authentic financial statement of the City. Evidently they are ashamed of existing conditions both due to the records and financial conditions of our city, as they have had ample time to prepare this statement and so far we have no evidence of anything being done. Again I ask the question: Mr. Mayor, what becomes of the $191,715.50 that comes into our City Treasury annually?

NOW is the time to take action about these conditions. Will we sit down and let important matters flow by unheeded or will we arise to this challenge like the American men and women we are?

Remember the date—July 10th

Your Independent Candidate,

EARL F. RAMOND.

Franklin Half Dollar

The United States' coinage of new half dollars with the Liberty Bell on one side and Benjamin Franklin's profile on the other is a happy addition to our national currency.

The cracked Liberty Bell is a reminder that freedom at home and abroad is threatened. And, in these extravagant times, we need, as never before, Benjamin Franklin's common sense.

This nation's rise to a position of power, wealth and influence had an inspiring start; it sprang from the American concept of national independence and individual freedom. Here for the first time men were free to give full expression to their latent genius. Bathtubs, telephones, phonographs, sewing machines, automobiles, radios, combines, motion pictures, flying machines and television are all products of American imagination and initiative—our freedom to venture.

Our forefathers sought and found on these shores a new freedom, which Thomas Jefferson expressed in a paragraph: "Agriculture, manufacture, commerce and transportation, the four pillars of our prosperity, are most thriving when left most free to individual enterprise."

But even then, we could not have capitalized fully upon this urge to create and produce had we not also been a frugal people. Benjamin Franklin, an early and outstanding exponent of thrift, put the stamp of his philosophy upon the American character. By saving something out of wages we were able to finance an expanding economy. Pennies multiplied into dollars and dollars grew into billions. Employment was provided for an increasing population and ours became the land of plenty. Famine, so common to Asia and Europe, were unknown to this continent.

Through freedom and thrift the Republic flourished. No known economic or political system on earth ever produced such prosperity and happiness. Regimentation of the individual citizen and public extravagance lead to poverty, misery, bankruptcy and decay. Freedom and economy provide a sound and enduring society.

As the Franklin new half dollars are put into general circulation, may we all remember that the spirit of freedom and the practice of thrift are the best ways to build our personal and public fortunes.

TRAFFIC DEATHS SHOW DECREASE, SAYS BIRDSONG

On reviewing figures compiled by our accident Bureau, I find we have reduced traffic deaths for this year, Jan. 1, 1948 through May 18, 1948, a total of 45 people or 30% compared to the same period of 1947.

The nation wide decrease is 7%. In other words for this period in 1947, we killed 151 people and this year, 1948, we have killed so far, 106.

I realize that 106 killed is a lot of people, and far too many, and have instructed all Patrolmen to tighten up on all enforcements, with special emphasis on drinking drivers, speeders, reckless driving and running stop signs.

Our goal this year is to save 150 lives. We hope to have 100 men patrolling the highways in the near future, and will do everything in our power to bring these accidents to a minimum, but we must have the help and cooperation of all our citizens.

Wins Recognition
In National Cancer
Control Contest

A Mississippian wins again! This time it's a nation-wide radio contest. A telephone call from Chicago this week informed the State Cancer Office that a Mississippian was one of this week's winners of the "Queen for a Day" radio contest. Another telephone call to Mrs. Jean D. McCollister, of Henderson Point, Pass Christian, informed her she was the winner. Mrs. McCollister was one of the many women all over the United States who had sent her contribution to the American Cancer Society to the radio program along with a letter saying why she would like to have a vacation. Being chosen a winner means that she will receive a beautiful all new electric range—prize for this week. In addition to that, she will be one of the twenty-five women who are eligible for the grand prize—and all expenses paid two months vacation by trailer.

When asked for information about herself, Mrs. McCollister says: "About us, well, we're so average, it's like peeping on your neighbor's window. My husband, Pete, was one of the 'skeleton crew' kept on at the Merchant Marine Base here after the hurricane. They were the men the government gave credit for saving it $200,000.

We live near the base with our four children—Betty, the eldest, nine, a blonde; Billy, six, our red-headed son; Caroline, three, our personality girl, and Peggy, eight months. The oldest, two go to school while Caroline and I tend baby and keep house.

The radio is my main source of pleasure. Pete belongs to the local baseball league and takes the two oldest children along to watch him play, leaving Caroline and me to keep a light in the window.

We all enjoy swimming at the base pool. The two oldest children can be found on the sea wall at every opportunity, keeping the family supplied with crabs to stuff and gumbo.

I just clean, cook, wash, iron and sew like every other American mother. I was born in Little Rock, Arkansas, and will be 29, June 16th.

I entered this contest because I felt that my small contribution might help to keep other homes as average as ours by helping to stamp out cancer. Even though the contribution was small, I felt that if every mother would contribute, your worthy fund would grow and then I felt if I should win, which was unlikely, a vacation would be welcome and send me back to my family with a new, fresh outlook and better prepared to keep them healthy, worthy citizens of America."

VALEDICTORIAN AT

CYRIL J. FAYARD

With a general average of 98.1 throughout his four years of High School at St. Stanislaus, Cyril J. Fayard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Fayard of Bay St. Louis, was valedictorian of his class at their graduation exercises held Sunday. The valedictory address follows:

Right Reverend Monsignor, Reverend Fathers, Venerable Sisters, Kind Teachers, Generous Parents, Classmates, and Friends:

This is our Commencement Day, an anniversary which terminates another successful year in the long educational history of Saint Stanislaus. This commencement is indicative that we, Seniors, have reached the completion of our Secondary Education. We have anticipated this great day for many years. It has been the focal point of all our endeavors this past year. Graduation has become a reality in our lives and in that of our beloved parents who also have looked forward to this great day.

We are indeed proud and happy today to take our place in that long line of men who for Ninety-four years have boasted of being graduates of St. Stanislaus. The men of Stanislaus are found in every profession, and in almost every line of business. They are successful men. They are leaders in their field, because of the principles taught here at Stanislaus. Hence, we have before us men most worthy of imitation.

The prospectus recently published by St. Stanislaus carries this very apt saying: "St. Stanislaus is not merely a school, it is a way of life." All who have gone through this school know this to be a resume of the curriculum of studies set out for the students—a curriculum based on Catholic principles forming a sure guide in life. It is a course of studies that follows a dictum laid down by George Washington who said: "Let us not indulge the supposition the morality can be maintained without religion; for reason and experience forbid us to expect that natural morality can exist in exclusion of religious principles." Here at St. Stanislaus those religious principles have not been neglected; for the courses are well planned to enable graduates to avoid the pernicious pitfalls that confront the world today.

Tomorrow begins the real commencement. No longer shall we have the good Brothers around to tell us the answers. What concerns us, the graduates of 1948, are the many problems that bother not only our Government Leaders, but also affect our neighbors and our families. The biggest question confronting us is the threat of a Third World War! We are young, to be sure, but we too, read the papers; we listen to the radio; we hear our elders discuss the problems that seem to act as a canker upon the whole Nation. This unrest and worry seems to stem from the inroads Communism has made in this country, and the manner in which it has laid down an iron curtain upon various countries of Europe.

To me the answer to many of these problems rests in what President Truman said very recently: (Quote) "If we are to be saved from chaos and confusion, the formula must be spiritual. Only God can make man moral." In other words, we must resort to spiritual weapons, if we wish to overcome our national and international problems. We have been trained to have a reliance upon God and His Divine providence, and with the sacraments and prayer, we will have no fear for the problems that may beset us.

In conclusion, I wish to leave my last thought with our parents, and I am reminded of an old Danish proverb which reads: "Labor hath a bitter root, but a sweet taste." To you, dear parents, the sacrifices you have made in our behalf; the trials and tribulations we have caused you down through the years have been at times most bitter; but today, you have just cause to rejoice and enjoy the sweets of victory achieved in our Commencement Day. As our Salutatorian so aptly expressed it—"This is your day"—and we hope that each of us has brought to his parents an overflowing cup of happiness that shall be remembered for many, many years.

I thank you.
CYRIL FAYARD.

SALUTATORIAN AT
ST. STANISLAUS

JOSEPH FRANZ FASOLD

With the second highest average in the graduating class at St. Stanislaus, Joseph Franz Fasold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Fasold of Gulfport, Miss., was the salutatorian. His address follows:

Right Reverend Monsignor, Reverend Fathers, Reverend Brothers, Venerable Sisters, Dear Parents, Classmates, and Friends:

I feel very proud to represent my class, welcoming you here today for the Ninety-fourth Annual Commencement of Saint Stanislaus. We the graduates of Class of 1948, are indeed glad to have you with us, to share our joy on this, one of the great days of our lives. We have reached, in our career, a notable milestone that shall remain in our memories forever.

As we look upon our loved ones, we sense a reflected wave of happiness that emanates from the sad, yet joyful eyes of our parents. They have every reason in the world to be happy, because this is really their day. They have been looking forward to this event for a long time. They have made countless sacrifices that we might sit on this stage today as graduates of St. Stanislaus. All we can say to them at this moment—is our sincerest thanks from the bottom of our hearts for the grand opportunity they have given us to obtain this wonderful Catholic Education.

I know everyone of my classmates will agree with me when I say that our Teachers, the Brothers of the Sacred Heart, have proven to be more than mere instructors—they have been true friends. And, when I use the words true friends, I mean them in the strictest sense of the term. They have at all times been most patient with us as sometimes we lagged along with the thorny road of knowledge; they have had words of encouragement when the road became rocky, and seemingly to us, almost impassable; but, above all they have shown by example how a Catholic gentleman should live. They have imprinted upon our memories, our hearts, and our souls a way of life that shall be our guide for all time. We shall endeavor to live up to the expectations they have reposed in us.

Dear friends the serious faces of classmates do not, I am sure, denote any sadness. It is rather deep thinking as to what lies before us. We shall no longer have that mutual encouragement and help from one another, which have been our prized possessions for several years. Now, we must face the many problems alone and be guided by the principles we have been taught here at St. Stanislaus. In that way, we shall always be together in memory and in spirit. We shall always cherish the memories that brought us together, and in after years when we shall meet, the joyous occasions of our school days will bring us many happy moments.

Our way of life changes with our parting with St. Stanislaus. What God has destined for each of us, lies in His Almighty Will, but we are unafraid to meet any difficulties. Our spiritual training, thanks to the Priests of the Parish and the Brothers, will help us overcome any fear of uncertainty. And, no matter to what field our ambition may lead us, we shall realize victory, provided we follow the ideals that have been set before us. Then, we shall have achieved a secure and definite place in an uncertain world which awaits us.

There is no such talk today about Youth, that concerns us. We are the youth of today, who are expected to become the leaders of tomorrow. Without any undue boasting, there is no reason why we should not assume that leadership in the years to come. The professional training that many of us will begin with the new school year will be merely a means to an end, but the Character training we have received at St. Stanislaus will be the foundation upon which our life will be built.

If we live up to the Catholic ideals taught us, we shall assume a place made by other men from this school, and when we shall report for the last roll call—"It will be only the Master shall praise us, and only the Master shall blame."

I thank you.
JOSEPH F. FASOLD.

Scenes From The Consecration Ceremonies For Bishop Leo Fahey

The Right Reverend D. J. O'Bierne, Vicar General of the Diocese of Natchez, and Notary of the Consecrator, Bishop Gerow, reading the papal mandate, naming Bishop Fahey, Bishop of Ipsus and Co-adjutor Bishop of Baker City, Oregon.

Four members of the St. Stanislaus Band played "O Salutaris Hostia" during the consecration of the Mass at the ceremonies of consecration of Bishop Fahey. The music for the occasion was adapted for trumpets by Brother Romuald, S. C., director of the St. Stanislaus Band, at the suggestion of the Reverend Edward J. Desmond, General Chairman of the committees for the ceremonies. The members of the Band reading from left to right are: Larry Scharff, Norbert Carnovale, Joseph Fasold and Sal D'Angelo.

Immediately before the Offertory of the Mass the newly consecrated Bishop kneels before his consecrator and offers him two lighted candles, two loaves of bread and two small barrels of wine, decorated with the coat of arms of the consecrator and the newly consecrated bishop. Above Bishop Fahey may be seen offering to Bishop Gerow one of the kegs of wine.

ORTTE THEATRE WED. & THURSDAY "BUSH CHRISTMAS"

A Picture All Children Will Enjoy

Designed principally, but not exclusively, for children, "Bush Christmas" is a film story of Down under and the adventures of a group of youngsters who track horse thieves in the wastelands.

Produced, directed and written by Ralph Smart in Australia and scheduled for release in this country in December by Prestige Pictures through Universal International, under the J. Arthur Rank banner, it is a picture which has skillfully incorporated all the elements of entertainment with the exception of romance. There is adventure and suspense, an abundance of action and thrills, some touches of comedy and hints of danger—all of which will encourage juvenile audiences to place themselves in the roles played by the film youngsters. For adults these elements will hold interest.

The picture opens during the Christmas vacation season in the Australian countryside. When two horse thieves steal a valuable mare and foal from a local sheep rancher the youngsters mount and track the thieves into the bush. There the adventures pile up until they finally outwit the thieves and they are captured.

Although the cast is relatively unknown in this country they carry their roles with ease. Chips Rafferty who starred in the Australian Western "The Overlanders" is seen as a thief. Heading the juvenile cast, which ranges in age from six to fourteen, are Helen Grieve as —Mr. and Mrs. Alfred M. Scharff of Memphis, Tenn., are guests of the former's brother and sister-in-law Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Scharff at their South Beach home. The young couple are on their honeymoon and it is Mrs. Scharff's first visit to this section of the Coast and like most visitors she is charmed with it.

—Dr. and Mrs. A. P. Smith enjoyed a family reunion for dinner on Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. A. P. Smith at a coffee party complimentary to Miss Arlette Delattre of Paris France, who is visiting her relatives the deMontmoulin family. The guest list included a group of the young married set.

—Among those coming for the consecration of Bishop Leo F. Fahey, D. D., were Mrs. R. W. Taylor, Mrs. Curtis Waller, Mrs. Joseph P. McGinn, Miss Patricia Taylor, Jerry McGinn of New Orleans. This family and Bishop Fahey were neighbors and played together as children.

Following this all three placed their hands upon the head of the new Bishop saying "Receive the Holy Ghost." This being the essential rite by which the Episcopal order is conferred.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—If I attend summer sessions at the college where I am enrolled under the education benefits of the GI Bill, do I need a supplemental certificate of eligibility?

A—No. The only time you need a supplemental VA certificate of eligibility to attend summer school is when you transfer to another school for the summer term.

Q—I am a U. S. citizen and have received war service gratuity and reestablishment of credit benefits from the Canadian Government. Am I entitled to loan benefits under the GI Bill?

A—Veterans Administration has ruled that the loan benefits under the Serviceman's Readjustment Act are neither the same nor similar to the "war service gratuity" and "reestablishment credit" apparently paid you in cash by the Canadian Government. Therefore, you are entitled to a loan guaranty if you are otherwise qualified.

Q—Five of us veterans of World War II have incorporated and are operating a business. Can each of us file a claim for readjustment allowance as self employed?

A—No. A Veterans Administration decision held that none of the veterans connected with a corporation can be regarded as self-employed within the meaning of Public Law 346 (G-I Bill).

Q—My husband is receiving a Spanish War pension of $80 monthly. We were married two years ago and I would like to know if I will receive a pension at his death?

A—No. Under existing law, you would not be eligible because your marriage took place after December 31, 1937.

BAY HIGH VALEDICTORIAN

LORRAINE DAVIS

The Valedictorian of the Class of 1948 at Bay High was Miss Lorraine Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Davis of Bay St. Louis. The Valedictory address of Miss Davis follows:

"Classmates, Parents, Members of the Faculty, and of the Board of Trustees, and Friends:

I have the honor to present the valedictory for the Class of 1948. My joy on this occasion is somewhat impaired by a mixture of emotions, and I am sure I speak the sentiment of the entire class. We are glad to be finishing high school, yet we regret that we have to leave the scene of so many pleasant associations.

As we come to the end of our four years of high school, we are grateful for having been born and brought up in a Country where such a school system exists. We, the Class of 1948, are grateful to you, our parents and friends, for making this particular school available to us.

From the standpoint of world conditions there seems to be uncertainty today as to the destiny of man in different parts of the world. This furnishes an occasion for us to question in our own minds whether education can make men free. We believe it can. If democracy, as it is known in America, is to be perpetuated, it will be largely through the teaching and influence of the American system of schools. The only way in which this form of government can be preserved is by teaching and demonstrating essential facts and basic principles which are the foundation of our way of life.

The American school system is perfectly adapted to the purpose of sustaining a nation of free people. It is so widely distributed that practically every individual in every city, town or country comes under its influence. The significance of this fact is tremendous. There can be no accurate estimate of the role that education can and will play in the present crisis and in problems which will arise out of these strenuous times.

The schools furnish the one guarantee that local self-governing communities shall be capable of self-government. Thomas Jefferson was correct and wise in saying "If the people expect to be free and independent, and at the same time ignorant and illiterate, they are expecting something that never has been nor ever can be."

It must not be forgotten that the battle for human rights is one which never ends. This means that education is a process which never ends. From the days of its infancy down to this day of our graduation, free education, unaffected by political or economic pressures, has been proclaimed the guardian of our rights. The school system has been the means of its promotion. Public-spirited leaders have repeatedly pointed out the necessity of such an educational system and warned that our way of life is directly dependent upon the education of all the people.

Throughout the history of our national existence no other institution has carried as much of the responsibility for carrying on our manner of living as the schools have. The public school system has been well aware of its obligation in this respect. Preparing the youth of the land to participate actively in a democracy has been an unquestioned aim of the school system from its beginning. The schools have varied some according to the demands of different periods of American history, but always they have taught basic facts without restraint or interference from political or economic pressures.

Emphasis has been laid on learning to cooperate, yet thinking independently, solving problems, participating in school government, and taking the consequences of mistakes. A fellow has to learn to give and take.

As we graduate from high school, a question before us is can education do for all the world what it has done for America. The future places a tremendous responsibility upon the American education system. Our schools face an exciting challenge.

There are new and vital education problems which will require the utmost resourcefulness and vision of the nation's best teachers and school officials. It will have to have the utmost in support and cooperation by the American people to the end that our system of education will show the way to all the world.

With the closing of this commencement exercise tonight, we cease to exist as a high school class and it becomes our duty to say farewell. To the faculty we turn first. You have encouraged us, you have been patient, you have developed our individual possibilities, you have been friends as well as instructors.

To our parents we do not say farewell, but wish to thank you for the school life which you have made possible for us.

Classmates, we may say farewell, yet there is no farewell between us. As we go our different ways, in our lives to come, we will be always held together through bright days and dark days by the common possession of principles and ideals taught us here in Bay High."

BAY HIGH SALUTATORIAN

JANE DUBUISSON

Miss Jane Dubuison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Dubuison of Bay St. Louis was Salutatorian of Bay High School Class of 1948. Her address follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is my honor and privilege to welcome you to participate in the graduation of the Senior Class of 1948. This never-to-be-forgotten hour is dedicated to you, our parents and friends, as a token of gratitude and appreciation. To us it is something which is precious, personal and everlasting, something to be cherished through the years to come.

We have been dreaming about high school graduation for a long time. Always it has seemed that it would never really come to us. Still we worked toward that end, saw others graduate in classes ahead of us and looked forward to our graduating exercises. The hour has now arrived.

We hear much said today about the crisis which civilization is facing, and of a great uncertainty which lies ahead. We hear the world is still faced with evil forces which have to be overcome by the good. From history it appears that the battle between the good and the bad has always existed. As we graduate in peace and prosperity, we are mindful of the fact that back through the pages of history the good forces practically always won out in the end over the bad. We are also mindful of the fact that it is a battle which will never end.

Perhaps we look upon the future and its problems with too much hope and eagerness and too little fear and concern. We ask to be excused if we are too much taken up with today to be concerned about things of the future. This is our day of graduation.

We believe there are greater things destined to happen in the future than have ever happened before. We believe there are inventions still to be worked out which will more completely revolutionize the way we live than any of those in the past. Many great mechanical developments of the past have added tremendously to the joy and pleasure of living. The radio, the airplane, the automobile, the telephone and many others. All of the great things of the past seem to have joined together to make a greater day on which for us to graduate.

In 1942 Winston Churchill made one of his many memorable speeches in London. In this particular speech referred to he made one of his many impressive statements, the kind of statement which has brought him to be recognized as one of the greatest thinkers of the day. There must be something profound in the wisdom of this man. He has often said things which were so clear in their logic and so sound in their fact that they are long quoted after him. The particular statement which he made in 1942 was in regard to a phase of the great war; yet it just happens to apply to us here today just as it did to that occasion on which he spoke. He said: "This is not the end. It is not even the beginning of the end. But it is, perhaps, the end of the beginning."

The statement by Churchill referred to a war which was at that time in progress. It is just as appropriate for us to say that this graduation ceremony is not the end of our education. It is not even the beginning of the end of our education. But it is, perhaps, the end of the beginning.

Within the past few years man has produced so many astonishing things that we are threatened with mental inundation. Often the impression is justified that we are (pardon the expression) "snowed under." Certainly there must be many useful ideas which just do not get through the traffic jam of all the interesting things which are being done.

Inspired by the never ending flow of interesting ideas and information we graduate today with eyes upon the future. As our dream comes true today the world is faced with several uncertainties. A political uncertainty which will be the final outcome of the tug-of-war between radically different forms of government. There is an intellectual problem facing the world. Of the approximately two billion inhabitants of the earth, at least three-quarters of them live in fear and darkest ignorance. Shall we raise this majority to our own level of education, or shall we be dragged down to theirs? As the intellectual material leader of a world in chaos, America must give the answer. We have not reached the end of ignorance and strife. It is not even the beginning of the end. It is, perhaps, the end of the beginning of an effort to carry enlightenment to all people everywhere.

Our graduation here tonight is only a symbol of what is going on in thousands of communities throughout the country. They are all similar in formality yet everyone has a different meaning because of different traditions and community interests, but all alike cherishing the same land of freedom and opportunity which has made it possible for all of us.

We who graduate this spring in this school and in all schools throughout our nation owe a tribute to you, the teachers, parents and friends of this community and all communities. You have provided the educational influence which is apparent everywhere. To you today there comes from all of us a tribute for the job you have done. The Class of 1948 is grateful to you. It will be our aim in life to reward your efforts by fulfillment of the hopes you have in us.

ST. JOSEPH ACADEMY VALEDICTORIAN

GAYNEL GEX

Miss Gaynel Gex was the Valedictorian of her class at the St. Joseph Academy Graduating exercises. Miss Gex is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Gex, Jr. Her Valedictory address follows:

"Your Excellency, Most Reverend Bishop Fahey, Right Rev. Monsignor, Reverend Fathers, Kind Teachers, Dear Parents and Friends:

It is not for me to give a lengthy discourse on some subject of deep significance—my duty now is quite simple but withal most sweet and sacred. To me has fallen the happy privilege of greeting you with heartfelt words of welcome and telling you for myself and for the Class of 1948 how happy we are that you have come here to make this day of our graduation a day of solemnity as well as of rejoicing.

Particularly do I wish to extend to His Excellency our newly consecrated Bishop Fahey a very special welcome. Your Excellency, we feel greatly honored by your presence. St. Joseph Academy celebrates tonight its ninety-third commencement but not one of these can boast of the distinction which your presence here tonight gives the graduating exercises of Class 1948. For us was reserved the happy privilege of having as guest of honor a Bishop whom we can boast of as a fellow schoolmate, a Bishop who further was a faculty member of our school; a Bishop who throughout the years proved himself always a friend and benefactor of St. Joseph Academy. Thank you Most Reverend Bishop for the honor you well—but not entirely do we separate from you. Your teachings, your spirit, your love we take with us. May your motherly eyes still follow us from afar.

Dear classmates our paths may lie apart, but our hearts shall ever in memory walk together for we are the children of Mother Church and S. J. A. We are bound by traditions of the dear Sisters of St. Joseph whose lives have been spent in moulding our souls to harmony and Christlikeness. Let us pray that what is possible may become a reality for us—let us do our part to make this world a better place to live in. Let us advance the reign of world peace. Thus shall we make our soul nobler day by day. Meanwhile God love you and have never a fear, you will always fare well."

No thoughtful person, we are told can today be complacent when he takes stock of the present situation, either abroad or at home. In some respects the winning of a peace appears more difficult than the winning of a war. Does not our biggest challenge lie just here? Can we do anything to hasten the advance of that greatest of all goods for which men have ever striven—international peace?

A leading Catholic woman, the president of the National Council of Women of the United States, assures us that we can, "We are confident, she says, "that the spiritual power of womanhood transcends all the physical power of the universe. If this be true, let us dedicate ourselves here to the high purpose of pooling all our spiritual powers to bring about this long desired peace. For it follows that if the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world then it is possible for the genius of woman to, map the path that will lead us out of chaos."

Your Excellency, in the name of our Sisters and all my schoolmates let me tell you, dear Bishop Fahey, how proud we are to have you here tonight to share with us the triumph of this hour! Truly we are honored to have you as speaker at our graduation. We look to you for words that we may hold in our remembering hearts as a talisman that will defend us in future days of doubt.

Reluctantly I come to my real purpose in coming before you tonight, namely—to say farewell. This is the difficult phase of graduation and gladly would I have skipped this task which brings the only note of sadness to the joy of this graduation day—but come to it I must.

Very Reverend Monsignor, dear Reverend Fathers, to you we express the thanks our hearts have always cherished for the spiritual care, the wise counsel you have so unstintingly bestowed upon us.

To our teachers, the dear Sisters of St. Joseph's, who have been so patient, so sympathetic, so constantly interested in each of us during our years of study, we are loathe to say goodbye even for a brief while. Beloved sisters, from the bottom of our hearts we thank you for your guidance, realizing that to you we owe the distinction of this night.

Farewell then sweet Alma Mater—adieu everything good and dear and holy that you symbolize. Fare-

ST. JOSEPH ACADEMY SALUTATORIAN

The Salutatorian of the graduating Class of St. Joseph Academy was Miss Gloria Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donas Martin. The Salutatory address follows:

are affording us. We feel that you have made a sacrifice to be with us. Your appointments we know are heavy, and great must be your anxiety to assume your new duties. It is a privilege for our class to have you with us on this occasion and we again welcome you.

Tonight we are moving into a new world, one disrupted by strange ideologies; strange indeed to the teachings we have received in our Catholic Education, the fundamentals of which are our God and our country. In this world of materialism God is being forgotten and the leaders of an organized minority group, who recognize no Supreme Being are working overtime, seeking to destroy the great principles upon which our government is founded.

Many have dreamed of peace with the hope that the world would return to normal thoughts and that the energies and efforts of our people would soon heal and repair the wounds and tragedies of a worldwide war.

From reports coming from our own nation's capital and other world centers we are forced to believe that heavy war clouds are hanging low and threatening, and that in the distance the rumbling of drums and martial strains may be faintly heard.

We, the women of tomorrow, who have had the opportunity of receiving an education in a Catholic institution with God-fearing and God-loving women, as teachers, whose lives have been devoted to their God, their church, their country, and the cause of education, should step forward and further equip ourselves to assume a leadership that may avert the awful horrors and miseries of another war, and advance that peace which is so universally desired.

Those who proclaim that our way of life is all wrong should observe that this great nation with only 6% of the world's land area and 7% of the world's population has been able to create more new wealth than all the rest of the people on earth. The possessions of the people of this country is equal to approximately 60% of the wealth of the world. We have more churches, schools, libraries, hospitals, and recreational facilities than any other nation.

The wealth of our people is probably more widely distributed in our country than in any other, and we have countless other reasons to be thankful to Almighty God for the many favors bestowed upon us.

The reason and formula for the success of America is no secret. The individual has been in the answer—as with us "In ourselves our future lies," so it is with every American. We have an opportunity to give full expression to our energy, our vision, and our genius. The energy, vision and genius of our forefathers, coupled with production and thrift has redeemed a wilderness and created a masterpiece of God's handiwork. We must never lose faith in God and in the individual.

Classmates let us dedicate our lives to strive to inculcate both by word and example into the hearts and minds of our fellowmen, a deep abiding faith in God and in the sanctity of the individual's rights. Such is our message at the close of our association with our beloved Alma Mater. Such are a few of the ideals of the Class of 1948 in whose name I once again bid you a hearty welcome.

PRESENTED IN PIANO RECITAL

Miss Irma Kenney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kenney of this city was presented in a piano recital at Gulf Park College on Wednesday evening. Miss Kenney is a senior at the college.

Miss Kenney played Sonata in A Major by Mozart; Three Fantastic Dances by Shostakovich; Hungarian Rhapsody 11 by Liszt. All of these were difficult selections and Miss Kenney won recognition for skill and training.

On the program with Miss Kenney were Miss Jean Golladay and Miss Marianne Milner both presented in a Speech program.

"National Velvet," as Garfield's mother Art Smith as his father, Joseph Pevney as Shorty, his boy hood pal, Canada Lee as the fighter from whom he wins the crown, William Conrad, Lloyd Goff and Virginia Gregg, all of whom made their names on the stage and radio before venturing Westward.

John Indrisano, famed welter-weight contender, acted as coach for Garfield and Lee in the fight sequences, and doubled in brass as referee in the ringside scenes.

Newcomer Hazel Brooks, a torrid copper-haired beauty from the modelling field, is cast as Alice, the "other woman," a nightclub warbler whose influence, though impermanent, beats Garfield in his ruthless path. Her face and figure, not to mention her irrepressible personality, has the film colony agog and Miss Brooks bids fair to become an important cog in casting wheels.

Enterprise persuaded one of the original Gold-diggers, Ethelred Leopold, once hailed as Hollywood's most beautiful chorine, to return to the cameras to do a specialty number-dancing on a drum in a nightclub sequence. And James Wong Howe, are cinematographer, supervised the photoplay.

Grow Or Die

Forget for the moment all the bromides about "standing still" which apply more or less to all industrial or business undertakings.

Let's think specifically about the community institution commonly know as "The City"

It must GROW, or else DIE, slowly but SURELY.

Growth is possible only under the supervision of a mayor who is qualified and has the desire.

If we want growth, we must so express ourselves by electing a mayor who is qualified.

Since we cannot see into the future, we must qualify the candidate by what we KNOW he has done in the past rather than by what he boasts of having done or what he promises for tomorrow.

If we want death, then we might as well vote for the first candidate who asks, or more preferably the one who can start the most whispered accusations, and insinuations against the character of some other candidate.
